SENATORS TO UNDERGO "GRILLING"

Senate Judiciary Subcommittee Will Hold Open Hearings

IN SEARCH FOR LOBBY

Declaration That Powerful Lobby is at Work, Will Be Investigated—Request Pres. Wilson to Give Information.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, June 2.—The first senators to testify today at the senate investigation of the charge that a lobby is working against the tariff bill, declared they know of no improper influence being exerted; no use of money and had not, themselves, attempted to improperly influence any other senators.

All admitted having talked with manufacturers interested in the tariff bill; having heard arguments and protests but all considered the proceedings strictly legitimate and none considered the men with whom they talked as "lobbyists."

Senator Ashurst said however, that "a man named McMurray" had been attempting improperly to influence senators against the movement to certain Indian contracts by which McMurray said to receive $2,500,000. Senator Borah referred also to the "man Senator Ashurst mentioned."

Just before the committee began taking testimony Chairman Overman and Senator Reed conferred with President Wilson. It was said the President would not be called before the committee but would transmit any information he might have on the subject of a "lobby."

Among those who testified today were Senators Ashurst, Bacon, Bradley, Bristow, Borah and others.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, June 2.—The search for a tariff lobby such as President Wilson had declared was operating in Washington, began today with the senate judiciary sub-committee holding open hearings.

Every senator was prepared to answer a series of eleven questions which constituted a "grilling" to determine whether he has any personal interest in the tariff or other legislation and to find out what persons have approached him in the effort to influence his action in schedules on the tariff.

It has been intimated that hundreds of men interested in manufacturing or in any business affected by the tariff have been in Washington during the last few weeks and many senators (Continued on page 3, col. 3)

DR. GLADDEN IS CENSURED FOR HIS ATTACK ON SUNDAY

(Associated Press Telegram)
Columbus, O., June 2.—The ministers who participated in the recent Billy Sunday revival and who are members of the Ministerial Association adopted resolutions at an independent meeting criticizing the venerable Dr. Washington Gladden for his "un-Christian attack" upon William A. Sunday, the evangelist, only five dissenting votes.

The resolution was adopted with only five dissenting votes.

The resolution is the culmination of a controversy which has been going on since the beginning of the Sunday revival services here, the holding of which was bitterly opposed by Dr. Gladden and a few other ministers.

Publication on last Saturday of a statement by Dr. Gladden attacking Rev. Mr. Sunday and his methods of evangelizing precipitated a deluge of sermons in Columbus pulpits yesterday in which Dr. Gladden was severely censured by many leading pastors. The Ministerial Association after adopting the resolution of censure today followed that action up by electing Rev. Carl Patton vice president of the organization. Rev. Mr. Patton is assistant pastor of Dr. Gladden's church.

FOUR ARMED MEN ROB JEWELER IN BROAD DAYLIGHT

(Associated Press Telegram)
New York, June 2.—Four armed highwaymen entered a jewelry shop of Mandell Greenhaus on the lower East Side today, held him up at the point of a revolver, beat him senseless when he resisted, looted his two safes of $4,000 in gems, locked him in the shop and escaped.

Greenhaus staggered to his feet, smashed the glass panel of the locked door, crawled through and gave the alarm.

The leader of the highwaymen entered the place alone, Greenhaus said, and asked to see a cheap watch displayed in the window. When the jeweler returned to the counter with the watch, he looked up into the muzzle of a revolver. Three other highwaymen darted in before he could make an outcry and stunned him with the butts of their pistols.

Natural Gas Case is Being Argued Today Before Judge Jewell

Answering the declarations of Judge S. M. Douglass of Mansfield, general solicitor for the Newark Natural Gas & Fuel company, who stated that a state-wide rate of 20 cents net per thousand cubic feet would bankrupt every gas company in Ohio, City Solicitor Roderic Jones replied with figures to show that the earnings of the company since its organization have been sufficient to replace the value of its entire equipment and to pay in addition thereto a rate of six percent interest on the original investment of its stockholders.

These were points brought out in arguments of counsel in the suit of the city of Newark against the Newark Natural Gas & Fuel company, before Judge Jewell of Delaware in Common Pleas court Monday.

Attorneys Fitzgibbon and Montgomery were with Judge Douglass as representatives of the gas company, while City Solicitor Roderic Jones had as assistant counsel former city solicitor Frank A. Bolton and Hon. Edward Kibler.

After counsel had agreed on approximately two hours to a side for presenting arguments, Judge Douglass opened with his brief, which consumed about two hours and a quarter.

The suit, instituted following the refusal of the Gas company to comply with an ordinance passed March 6, 1911, by the Newark city council fixing the maximum rate for gas for five years at 20 cents net per thousand and with ten percent off paid on or before the tenth of the month next following, has evolved itself into a series of complex questions involving valuations of the company's property and holdings.

According to arguments of counsel on both sides the court is called upon to determine whether the rate of 18 cents per thousand cubic feet is a just rate, and also how to arrive at a basis for fixing a just rate.

Judge Douglass in behalf of the Gas company said the case presented three distinct questions, i. e., what is a reasonable cost of production and transportation? What is a reasonable rate to charge in consideration of that cost, and on what basis may a reasonable rate be made?

He contended that the fixing of a reasonable rate would depend wholly upon expert knowledge of the conditions governing cost of production and transportation from the field to the gates of the city, with the cost of distribution as an incidental item of considerable importance in this issue. Among other features he noted the condition of the gas field—the source of the local supply—the rock pressure, distance of transportation.

Incidentally he mentioned that the company's loss as the result of floods, fires and tornado, since the institutions of this suit had exceeded a quarter of a million dollars.

He declared that adoption of the rate fixed by the city ordinance would amount to nothing short of confiscation of the company's property, in violation of the state and United States constitutions. In support of this he explained that the defendant concern is a distributing company only; that it was originally

DYNAMITE TRIAL IS RESUMED

Prosecution Springs Surprise by Introducing a New Witness This Morning

CHAUFFEUR ON STAND

Testifies That He Drove a Passenger Resembling Atteaux from Home of Wood on Night of Dynamite "Planting."

(Associated Press Telegram)
Boston, June 2.—The prosecution sprang a surprise in the dynamite conspiracy case today by introducing as a witness a chauffeur who testified that he drove a passenger resembling Frederick E. Atteaux from the Boston home of William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company, to the corner of Washington and Franklin streets on the night of January 19, 1912, the date upon which the dynamite was "planted" at Lawrence.

The government renewed in the superior court today its effort to connect President W. M. Wood of the American Woolen company, Frederick E. Atteaux and Dennis J. Collins, a dog fancier with an alleged conspiracy to plant dynamite to discredit the strikers during the textile troubles in Lawrence last year.

The close of the government's case was expected today.

While no intimation was given as to the defense to be taken by the attorneys for President Wood, it is expected that Atteaux will take the stand in his own defense.

John J. Breen, who had confessed to distributing the dynamite, previously testified that he met Atteaux on the corner of Washington and Franklin streets on the night of January 19 and at the time Atteaux paid him $500 to defray the expenses of "planting" the dynamite. He said that Atteaux dropped the money on the sidewalk and he picked it up. Dennis J. Collins, who turned state evidence corroborated Breen in part. The state is trying to show that Wood and Atteaux conspired with Breen and Collins.

Unexpectedly today District Attorney Pelletier called Arthur Pira, a taxicab driver to the stand. Pira testified that at 5 o'clock on the night of January 19, 1912, he was called to 21 Fairfield street which is the home of President Wood. There he received a passenger whom he described as "tall and heavily built."

The prosecutor pointed to Atteaux and asked him to identify the defendant as his passenger. The witness said that he could not be sure but that Atteaux, "resembling" the man who occupied his car.

The chauffeur said he drove his passenger to the corner of Washington and Franklin streets. There the man got out and walked down Franklin street returning to the cab, or person, later about 15 or 20 minutes. The stop was about 15 or 20 minutes. Then he drove to a bar room on Court street where the passenger got out and entered the saloon. A few minutes later the man returned to the cab and again drove to the corner of Franklin and Washington streets, where the passenger got out a second time. Soon afterward he returned to the car and the witness was instructed to drive to the headquarters of the Boston Athletic association on Exeter street.

Last week Orville A. Reddig, a chauffeur testified that he picked up Atteaux at the Boston Athletic association rooms on the same night and drove him to Mr. Wood's home in Andover.

Cross examined by Daniel A. Coakley, counsel for Atteaux the witness said that he was summoned to the district attorneys office last Saturday, but saw no one there. Late last night Police Inspector Lynch called on him and escorted him to Pelletier's office where he was shown the card recording the trips he made on January 19, 1912. This card, he said, he had not seen since the day the card was made.

Pira said he could generally tell where his passengers stopped on each trip. He could remember calls to Wood's house because they generally meant short trips.

INDETERMINATE SENTENCES FOR OHIO CRIMINALS

(Associated Press Telegram)
Columbus, O., June 2.—Descendants of members of the Ohio prison board who were in office in 1869 will recognize in their ancestors, pioneers in the indeterminate sentence act which was made a law by the recently adjourned legislature.

In the archives of the prison board, the first reference made upon this subject is made in the annual report of the commissioners for 1869 and reads as follows:

"It may be in advance of the present day, but it is, we believe, but anticipating an event not far distant, to suggest that sentences for crime, instead of being for a definite period should, under proper restrictions, be made to depend solely upon the reformation and establishment of good character of the prisoner."

Such a law was not enacted until last winter and has just gone into effect.

New York Cotton Exchange Ex-President's Wife Named in Society Divorce

(Associated Press Telegram)
New York, June 2.—Not in years has society in New York been so interested in a law suit as in the divorce action of Mrs. J. C. Bishop, society matron, against her millionaire banking husband, in which Mrs. Leila Gaines Gwatiney was named as one of the respondents. The trial which was held before the famous Justice Goff, who sentenced Police Lieutenant Charles Becker and the four gunmen who slew Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, to be electrocuted, was attended by all the society people who could crowd in.

Mrs. Gwatiney for many years has stood high in society, as high as the Bishops, whose associates have been the millionaires of the "Four Hundred." Widows, chambermaids, and other employees of the Hotel Astor were taken to court to testify they had seen Bishop and Mrs. Gwatiney in the hotel as "Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Bishop of Philadelphia." They identified Mrs. Gwatiney by her photographs, for she did not appear at the trial while witnesses for the plaintiff were on the stand.

Rich Farmer Has Been Missing for Over a Year

FARM HAND ARRESTED

Charged With Murder But Body of Victim Has Not Been Found—Mysterious Letters the Only Clue.

Eaton, June 2.—With the arrest of Elwood Davis, aged 40, a farm hand and single, Sunday night, one of the most baffling murders ever reported in southwestern Ohio, was brought to light. The history of the case reads like a novel.

Davis' alleged victim is Frank Bourne, aged 60, who owned a farm valued at $12,000 near Camden, in Preble county. Davis worked for him. Bourne disappeared a year ago and since then nothing authentic has been heard from him. His body has not been found, and, suspecting Davis to have killed his relative, John E. Bourne, a cousin, living in Middletown Sunday swore out an affidavit, charging Davis with first degree murder. Davis was arrested soon afterward by Sheriff Werts.

According to the story told the officials by John E. Bourne, Frank Bourne disappeared from his home a year ago. Being a single man, little was thought of it at the time, but later, when he failed to return and nothing was heard from him, inquiries were made as to his whereabouts.

Some time after his mysterious disappearance, Davis is said to have received a strange letter telling him to sell Bourne's effects and send the proceeds South, as Bourne intended to make his future home there. Davis held a sale and neighbors say that after that he had plenty of money to spend. John E. Bourne told the county officials that he has found no evidence of Davis ever sending the money away.

John Bourne, shortly after the sale, received a letter from an unknown person saying that his cousin had been murdered in Mississippi by two Italians who sought to rob him. The Italians then returned to their native country, the letter said. Davis received a like letter. Both letters were postmarked Hamilton, and Davis is said to have been in Hamilton that day. This is believed to be the strongest point against the accused man.

Davis refuses to talk, but said he would have a statement to make today. There is some doubt expressed here as to whether a case can be made against Davis, as the body of Bourne has not been found and it is not positively known that he is dead.

WATER BILLS MUST BE PAID BY JUNE 10

Service Director James McCarthy announced Monday that all delinquent water consumers would lose the service on June 10 unless accounts were settled before that date. The department is making a highly successful effort to secure prompt payment for water service and the number of delinquents decreases with each quarter. The list now is smaller than ever and this will be materially reduced before the time limit expires. It is the wish of the department to have the consumers understand that water bills must be paid as promptly as they pay gas or electric light bills.

The men at the Little Falls and Saratell mills struck Saturday.

President of Women's League Defends Young Womanhood in National Convention

(Associated Press Telegram)
St. Louis, Mo., June 2.—Mrs. Raymond Robins of Chicago, president of the National Women's Trade Union League of America, in addressing the first biennial convention of the league here said that investigations have brought out a close relationship between low wages and the social evils.

"That there is commercialized vice we all know," said Mrs. Robins, "and that it sends its representatives into the day's work of factory and store we also know."

"But it has been definitely understood that there are girls by the tens of thousands who have maintained the integrity of their womanhood in the face of great personal suffering and self sacrifice, as well as in the face of grave temptation."

"I know girls who have entered a saloon because they could get there a bowl of soup as well as a glass of beer for five cents. I know other girls who never think of spending money for car fare or lunches or laundry or outings. Yet these girls by the tens of thousands have held their womanhood intact."

Mrs. Robins urged the establishment of a training school for women trade union organizers and the instruction of school children as to rights of child workers under the labor laws of the various states.

The Man Who Counts.

(By Chalmers L. Hancock.)

The man who is always "too busy" to lend a little help in the community's common cause is too busy to ever measure high in the community stature.

The man who is so poor he can't afford to support a well-founded, successful, result-producing community movement is indeed so poor that he is on the debit side of the community ledger.

The man who counts for something in Newark is the man who tried to do something for Newark—and he is the man who gets back from Newark the fullest measure of return.

CHASE TRADED TO WHITE SOX FOR 2 PLAYERS

New York, June 2.—First Baseman Hal Chase was traded to the Chicago White Sox in exchange for Second Baseman Robbie Zeider and First Baseman Borton. Manager Frank Chance of the New York American league team announced last night.

Chance said that after canvassing all the American league teams he had found the White Sox the only club to give an equivalent for Chase. The other clubs, the manager declared, did not seem anxious to get Chase under any conditions. Chance explained that while he considered Chase a great first baseman, Hal had been off in his batting to such a degree that a change of some kind was compulsory.

It was announced that Chance himself would play first base regularly for the locals, beginning today and might use Borton in the outfield. Zeider probably will be played at second.

Chase was the oldest member in point of service on the New York American. He joined the team in 1905 and has been on its roster ever since. Regarded by the majority of baseball observers as one of the greatest first basemen since the game began and once a hard hitter, he has been of late an uncertain batter.

He was taken from the ranks and made manager of the team in the latter part of the 1910 season, succeeding George Stallings and remaining at head of the club the following year. Harry Wolverton was his successor. Chase has been unfortunate in many ways, having frequently experienced long spells of sickness and being out of the game often through injuries.

TODAY'S RECORD OF THE PUGILISTS

1904.—Jack Johnson defeated Frank Childs in a 6-round bout on this date in Chicago. Childs was a fairly good man, but he stood no chance with the big negro who was even then showing flashes of the form that was to make him a world's champion. In that same year Johnson knocked out "Denver Ed" Martin in the 2d round, and stopped Sam McVey in 20 rounds. McVey, Jeanette, Young Peter Jackson and Black Bill were then Johnson's principal meat tickets.

1866.—Bill Crowley won on foul from Mike Donovan in 96 rounds at St. Louis.

1910.—Bob Moha and Jimmy Clabby fought 10-round draw at Milwaukee.

WIND AND RAIN STORM SUNDAY; DAMAGE SLIGHT

Heavy wind, accompanied by a dashing rain, broke suddenly about noon Sunday, catching many people on the way home from church and others who were out for the day pleasure seeking.

For about an hour, the elements succeeded in obscuring the elements of the stage, much to the discomfort of beachgoers. The wind continued for a half hour before the rain. The rain storm was followed by a vivid display of lightning and a rolling of thunder.

Many automobile parties were caught in the storm and thoroughly drenched before reaching home.

Hundreds of pleasure seekers at Bukeys Lake were caught in the storm. The wind found many pleasure seekers on the water and in several cases there were narrow escapes from drowning. Misses Flossie Purvis, Bessie Todrow, Harry Purvis and Andrew Herman, all of Columbus, were among the bathing parties caught on the lake.

It was with difficulty that the young men kept the boat from capsizing. It was finally driven into the shore along the shore and the occupants were compelled to wade ashore.

In Newark there was little damage except a few trees and the telephone wires. The phone service was interfered with slightly, but prompt work on the part of the linemen of both companies soon had the wires in working condition.

TO INVESTIGATE THE KILLING OF A TRAIN RIDER

(Associated Press Telegram)

Ft. Smith, Arkansas, June 2.—Arkansas authorities have been asked to detain John Selck, express messenger of Kansas City, pending an investigation of the killing of Patrick Lawson of Poteau, Oklahoma, aboard the express car of a Kansas City train, near Leavenworth, Oklahoma, yesterday.

According to a statement credited to Selck he found Lawson and a companion riding the "blind" and fearing that they intended robbing the train, he fired into the express car.

Lawson, he said, attempted to attack him and he opened fire. Pruet, Lawson's companion, declared Selck shot and instantly killed Lawson, who overpowered his hands. He said they were returning to Poteau from Havener after attending a picnic in that town.

"I believe I have killed the thief in him," said the doctor, after he had performed the operation.

Sam Byers robbed the home of the doctor and he was caught. He might have been sent to prison.

But the doctor visiting the man in jail, asked how he would like to have his brain "fixed up."

"Now, that's just what I need," replied the prisoner. "There's something wrong up there. I can feel it. All at once I seem to fade away, and when I wake up I find that I have done things I don't remember. I fell off a scaffold while a bridge worker in Pennsylvania, and haven't been right since."

The man was sent to the Speers Hospital, Dayton, Ky., where the operation was performed. It has been successful physically. Time alone will tell if it will bring about moral change.

Thing it over, boys. The clerks make no sacrifice, nor is he of less benefit to his employer by joining the Retail Clerks Association. Ask any of the boys who are in the movement at ready.

MILITARY EXPERTS FILE REPORTS ON BALKAN CAMPAIGN

(Associated Press Telegram)

Washington, June 2.—Military experts at the army war college have completed their study of the Balkan campaign. Hundreds of reports from all sources were scanned carefully and the campaign of aggression by the allies together with the defensive tactics of the Turkish hostilities were scrutinized for military lessons that might prove of value to the United States military establishment.

The experts it was said today, agreed that in figuring qualities, the troops on both sides were evenly matched. Turkey, however, fought a losing fight from the beginning because of her unpreparedness.

The Balkan allies, on the other hand, had made careful preparations for the struggle, their plans running through several years.

CHILD FALLS ON GLASS TUMBLER; THROAT BADLY CUT

Bladensburg, June 2.—The two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Spang of near West Carlisle fell while drinking water from a thin glass tumbler. The tumbler broke and a piece of the glass penetrated the child's throat, narrowly missing the jugular vein. Despite the fact that the child was hurried to the office of a surgeon, he was almost dead before the flow of blood could be checked. While the little fellow's condition is critical, it is thought that he will survive.

Doctor Cuts Tumor from Burglar's Skull to Make an Honest Man

Cincinnati, June 2.—Surgery vs. Law is the title of the drama in which Dr. S. P. Kramer is now taking part. He is trying to make an honest man out of a burglar by removing a tumor from his brain. He might have sent the man to prison and left the tumor in the brain, but the doctor had other notions.

"I believe I have killed the thief in him," said the doctor, after he had performed the operation.

Sam Byers robbed the home of the doctor and he was caught. He might have been sent to prison.

PUBLICITY AS WELL AS VINDICATION

Colonel Roosevelt has been "vindicated" in that libel suit in a town up in Northern Michigan. The publisher who indulged in a case of actual mud-slinging, took it all back, retracted and admitted that the Colonel was not guilty of drunkenness. The Colonel's vindication squares him against a good many attempts to smirch him by leaders of the Republican party who felt sore toward him in the last campaign because he resisted so successfully the rule of the party bosses who forced through the nomination of Taft at Chicago.

One of the most significant features of Colonel Roosevelt's vindication is the notoriety he has gained by the trial in a little Michigan town. He has certainly gained his well known desire for publicity to his heart's content. He has had a bully good time in the lime light, and the silly stories about his habits of drinking to excess will never dare to be repeated again for political purposes.

We are celebrating the semi-centennial of events in our civil war and the centennial of events in our second war with England. Friday, on the one hundredth anniversary of the battle of Sackett's Harbor, where we repulsed a British attack, a monument was erected on the battlefield, and on September 10 the one hundredth anniversary of Commodore Perry's brilliant victory on Lake Erie will be celebrated, the occasion being graced by an exhibition of the sword and pistols worn by Perry in that fight. They belong to descendants. Perry's flagship, or at least of a good deal of it has been raised from the waters under which it has rested for a century, and will be the most interesting exhibit imaginable.

An Austrian officer, who committed suicide because he had been discovered to be a spy in the interest of Russia, is said to have been employed by his own Government as a spy upon foreign officers. Evidently spies were then engaged to watch him on the theory of setting a thief to catch a thief. The incident shows the high sense of honor prevalent in some military circles. The old Romans had a cynical saying, "Who will watch the watchmen?" Apparently human nature has not changed a great deal in the intervening 2000 years.

IS THIS A CASE OF CONTEMPT OF COURT?

The following piece of comprehensive satire on the decisions of the Columbus Judge who freed the men whom the Franklin county grand jury had indicted for embezzlement in the Columbus bank probe case, is from the caustic pen of James W. Faulkner in his Sunday letter to the Enquirer:

"When is a door not a door? When it is ajar." (Ancient Conundrum.)

"By the same parity of reasoning the question may be asked: When is embezzlement not embezzlement? For many, many years cynics have said that there was really only one criminal law, and it was this: 'Thou shalt not be found out.' The Courts here have now written it into the jurisprudence of the state by holding that State Treasurers who loaned hundreds of thousands of dollars to banks for the purpose of profiting by the illicit interest committed no crime. It's enough to make the average man dizzy! Away back in 1838, Salmon P. Chase, a fair sort of a lawyer, who was then Governor and who later became Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, resolved to break up this practice. A State Treasurer named Breslin had been nipped through the failure of wild cat banks to which he had loaned the public funds for the sake of the interest. So Governor Chase wrote a law, which during all these 55 years has been thought to be fire, moth and burglar proof. Now it turns out that because Hon. 'Key' Cameron, formerly one of our prominent State Treasurers, put back $125,000 which he had loaned to a bank of which he was President, committed no particular offense. The element of intent, it seems, was lacking. But had some sharp nosed sleuth detected the $125,000 in the bank quietly and modestly earning its interest 'Key' would have been guilty of felonious embezzlement, although he fully intended to put it back into the treasury. So it was just a case of being found out, which 'Key' as Treasurer and President of the bank, took care wouldn't happen.

"But this isn't all. Oh dear no! The same Court found that one of 'Key's' employees, Henry W. Backhus, Secretary of the bank, who had jiggered up the books so as to conceal the deposit from prying eyes, should be held for trial on the ground that he had violated the law forbidding the making false entries in bank books. In other words, Backhus was guilty of helping 'Key' to perform a perfectly innocent transaction. Later it was ascertained that Herr Backhus wasn't guilty under the proper law. His lawyer pointed out that he had made the false and deceptive entries under the statutes existing prior to 1908. 'Key's' bank it turned out, had not availed itself of the elective feature of the state banking act passed in that year and consequently Backhus, while honestly intending to commit a misdeed, was excused out of it.

"Mr. Cameron, it appears, intended to be honest and never committed embezzlement, possibly depending upon his speed to get the money back to the state's safe ahead of the examiners. Mr. Backhus intended to make mis-leading entries and had no other notion. Yet both were punished for what they did. Now both are turned loose because it appeared, as a matter of fact, that they hadn't done the things they thought they did."

SHORT BALLOT

IV. How the Short Ballot Aided Governor Wilson in New Jersey.

Woodrow Wilson

A few months after he had launched the Short Ballot campaign, Woodrow Wilson was elected Governor of New Jersey. In this position he had some excellent opportunities to put his theories to practical test. One day the State "boss" of New Jersey left the executive offices at Trenton in a state of mental perturbation, all brought on by a polite "good afternoon" from Mr. Wilson. The incident is still fresh in everyone's mind. But how many realize what light it throws upon the system of government in New Jersey?

The fact is, Mr. Wilson knew, better than the "bosses," where their weakness lay and how they could be out-done. New Jersey, so far as its State administration is concerned, is built on the Short Ballot plan. The Governor is the only elective State officer, so that when the people have chosen him they have the key to the whole thing. Had there been a number of minor elective offices, each with his string of camp followers, in the Legislature and in the various offices up and down the State, it is questionable whether Governor Wilson could ever have put through his great program of constructive reform. Governor Hughes, in New York, had started out on the same road, but at every step he found himself blocked by elective subordinates whom he could not control.

But Woodrow Wilson struck the machine one sharp blow and it forthwith collapsed. He knew his own power and he accepted the responsibilities which went with it and became a real party leader. He purposed not only to execute the laws, but to take a leading part in fashioning them and getting them on the statute books in the first instance.

In acting with so much independence, the Governor was by no means trying to disrupt his party. He draws a sharp distinction, all too seldom made, between real parties and mere office-and-favor-seeking aggregations. "Parties are not only necessary," he says, "but desirable, in order that conviction upon great public questions may be organized and bodies of men of like opinion and purpose brought together in effective and habitual co-operation. Successful, orderly government is impossible without them. But the argument for our own particular organization of parties is quite another matter."

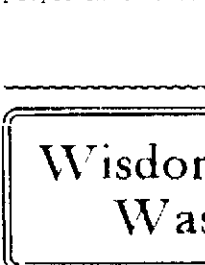

He goes on to show that because we have always insisted on electing so many officers, an organization has been necessary to do the work of filling the offices for, as he says, "The voter has not leisure, and therefore, has not the knowledge for the difficult and intricate business."

The inference is clear:—When we get the Short Ballot, party organizations, as we have known them, will be relegated to the scrap-heap, and real parties representing valid differences of opinion, will come to their own.

Uncle Walt's Philosophy

Pickled People

If there were no pickled people in this country of the free, what a fine upstanding country these United States would be! Half the jails might be abolished and upon the poorhouse door, there would be a sign announcing: "Nothing doing any more!" And the cops might safely slumber all night long upon their beats, and there'd be no homeless pilgrims finding lodgings in the streets, and but few would ever perish on the creaking gallows tree, if there were no pickled people in this country of the free. If there were no pickled people, homes now full of grief and woe would be glad with song and laughter, as they were long ago, ere Tired Father took to playing crimson tins upon his back, ere he handed to the brewers all his earnings of the week. And a million weary women might forsake the tubs and stoves, and a million ragged children might be wearing handsome duds, and a million loafers might be busy as the bees. Half the sorrow and the trouble in this weary world of ours come from tall and brimming flacons, sparkling wines and whiskey sour; what a brighter, better present, what a future we might see, if there were no pickled people in this country of the free!

Wisdom from Washington

Washington, June 2.—[Special.]—President Wilson knows the value of publicity. In that respect he is more like Roosevelt than any of his predecessors. I fancy that Mr. Wilson is rather surprised at times that the newspaper men who see him twice a week do not ask him pointed questions on the subject upon which he wishes to express himself. But he does not hesitate to ask the question himself and answer it in the language which he wants used.

And there is no false, quivering, in-memo-riam about it; no "it is understood the president thinks," or "it can be stated on the highest authority," and such other lines often used in dealing with presidents. The president hands out what he wants to say if it is long enough to be typewritten or he makes a flat, unimpassioned statement and can be quoted. That makes it valuable to the newspaper men.

One of the People.

Perhaps this is part of the president's program to be one of the people. He wants to be treated like other men and not hide behind his official position. The president has made congressmen feel that he is not defied by his advancement, and in talking directly to the people through the press in interviews he shows that he is like other men.

For some unknown reason it has been held undignified for the president and cabinet officers to be interviewed in the newspapers. It was all right for them to make speeches, which were published in the papers, but the interview, according to a tradition, was undignified. It will be so no more.

Charge of Drunkenness.

Many public men have had to undergo the charge of drunkenness during their public careers. Often by in-memo-riam the charge has been made against Colonel Roosevelt, although the Michigan case was the first time it ever was made with such directness. Whenever anything of the kind is mentioned it recalls the Fairbanks cocktail. The former vice president never drinks anything, but at a luncheon to President Roosevelt at his house some officious individual had cocktails prepared and served. The incident injured Fairbanks immeasurably, but never seemed to faze T. R.

Liquor and Politics.

Unless all signs fail the liquor question is going to cut quite a wide swath in politics in the future. It looks as if Reared in poverty, the future Pope early acquired that spirit of Spartan simplicity that has ever since characterized his mode and habits of life. From a humble parish priest, he rose by successive stages, as Bishop of Mantua and Cardinal and Patriarch of Venice, to the Pontificate, and the spiritual leadership of a vast multitude throughout the globe. The recent illness of the aged man who is the Holy Father of millions aroused the world's sympathies, and countless were the prayers in his behalf. Of the millions of dollars that pour into the Vatican the peasant-Pope spends only a trifle on himself, nor has he used any of the papal funds to aid his poor relations. His brother, Angelo, was a postmaster in a small town, receiving a dollar a day. The Pontiff's sister, Rosa, who died last February after a lifetime of devotion to the welfare of the man who was to be her brother and sovereign, was unable to read or write. Shortly before her death she said, "The meagre means of our parents was spent on the education of Joseph. If it had been divided there was a lot of capital made for Mr. Bryan out of the dinner incident where he did not serve wine to the foreign diplomats. The anti-liquor people are making a great deal of it.

While the liquor interests have always been a powerful factor in politics, there is no sentiment behind them, and, in fact, the sentiment is all on the other side. Bryan's friends are making the most of his temperance views whenever occasion arises.

Adding His Mite.

Congressman Britten of Illinois added his mite to the troubles of the Democrats by publishing in the Congressional Record all places not covered by the civil service law and therefore open to applicants. The places are not so very numerous, but they do not have that appearance when the average Democratic patriot looks at them.

He estimates his services to the party higher than any one else, and he cannot see why he should not have one of those places. Britten also published the salary list, which also looks attractive to men who have been out of office sixteen years.

Bennie Ran to the House.

Daddy's Bedtime
Story—When Bennie
First Fed
The Gobbler.

JACK and Evelyn were to go to visit in the country as soon as school closed. They were to stay at a farm, and many were the questions they asked daddy about the nice things they expected to see there.

"You will find the barnyard a very jolly place," daddy said. "In it there may be horses, cows, sheep, pigs, chickens, geese, ducks—yes, and I shouldn't be surprised if there were a turkey gobbler or so strutting around looking as if he owned the whole place."

"Once I knew a little boy who went to visit at a farm," daddy went on. "He had been to other farms, and he knew all about horses, cows, pigs, chickens and things of that kind. He always asked to feed the chickens."

"So in the morning when he had eaten his breakfast in the big airy kitchen he said to Aunt Emma:

"Please may I go out and feed the chickens, Aunt Emma?"

"Aunt Emma smiled and said as soon as she had cleared off the table there would be some scraps which he could take to them."

"So after awhile she gave the little chap, whose name was Bennie, a brown basket in which were bits of food from the table. Bennie put on his little hat and, taking the basket in his hand, started out for the barnyard."

"He opened the gate very carefully and, going in, stood in the middle of the yard looking about for the chickens. Some of them were scratching in the dust, but he knew that a great many others were in the barn."

"So Bennie raised his voice and called 'Chickie, chickie!' as loud as he could. "Although Bennie was a stranger, they saw the little basket and came running to find out what was in it. They knew that baskets generally meant something good to eat."

"Ducks and geese came too. Bennie was a little timid about geese, and he threw some scraps of bread away out where the geese were, and then he backed off toward the gate. Geese sometimes hiss at little boys, but when they are busy eating of course they can't do this."

"The basket was empty now, and Bennie, swinging it in his hand, had almost reached the gate."

"Just then a big bronze bird stalked out of the barn and, seeing the other fowls eating, came rushing out with a fierce 'Gobble, gobble!'"

"Bennie, frightened, turned and ran to the house."

"Oh, Aunt Emma," he shrieked, "there's a big bird out there with a wind-mill on his back, and he chased me out of the barnyard!"

"But now Bennie knows a turkey when he sees one, and he blushes when his folks tell this story about him."

First Things

The first savings bank was opened at Borne, Switzerland, 126 years ago today. It was called the Caisse de domestiques and was intended to receive the deposits of servants only. The first bank of this character open to the general public was instituted at Basel, Switzerland, five years later. The first real savings bank in Great Britain, and the parent of all such institutions in the United Kingdom and America, was opened in Edinburgh about a century ago. There had previously been a "charitable bank" at Tottenham, England, and a parish bank at Ruthwell, which were somewhat similar to savings banks, except that the stigma of "voluntarily" closed them to self-respecting persons. In 1816 the Rt. Hon. George Rose developed a system of savings banks and brought it under parliamentary control, in which artisans might deposit small sums, returnable with interest on demand. The postal savings banks, established in England in 1861 and only recently in the United States, were the outgrowth of this system. That the first Swiss savings bank for domestic servants was based on an accurate knowledge of their thrifty habits has been proved again and again in the postal savings system of all countries, in most of which servants are the largest patrons. Of the first 20,000 depositors in English postal savings banks, over a third were domestic servants.

Mr. Leander Wilson died in the Newark Sanitarium Sunday where he has been confined for over two years, suffering with a complication of maladies. He was a patient sufferer and bore his troubles with a patience and fortitude that had always been characteristic of the man during his life time. Always cheerful he endeavored to make things brighter for his fellow sufferers at the institution and will be sadly missed by all.

Leander Wilson was born in Madison township, Licking county, June 7, 1844, and was therefore within a few days of 69 years of age. He spent nearly all his life in the neighborhood of his birthplace and was highly respected by a large circle of friends and acquaintances. Her Eight Daily Meals.

Somerset, in England, is rich in names for the intercalated meal. In "Red Letter Days" Mrs. Andrew Crosse gives a delectable sketch of her old nurse, a Somersetshire woman, "who lived to be nearly a hundred. She used to say that folks should take their meals regular. All her life she had eaten a dew bit and breakfast, a stay-bit and dinner, a mommet and crummet and a bit after supper—eight meals in all."

Moisture of the Eye.

The moisture of the eye is genuine solvent. Many persons have gone to bed troubled with a foreign substance in the eye and have waxed in the morning to find it gone. In many cases of this kind the foreign matter has been dissolved by the moisture of the eye.

Not What She Meant.

"I think the baby has your hair, ma'am," said the nurse girl, looking pleasantly at her mistress. "Gracious!" exclaimed the lady, glancing up from her novel. "Run into the nursery and take it away from him. What will that child do next?"

Ambitious.

"And is it your expectation to support me in the manner to which I have been accustomed?" "Indeed it is!" "Then let's call it off. If you can not do better than that I may just as well remain where I am."—Houston Post.

"GEN." DRUMMOND

Militant Suffrage Leader Undergoes a Successful Operation—Will Postpone Trial.

[Associated Press Telegram]
London, June 2.—"General" Mrs. Flora Drummond, one of the militant suffragette leaders, underwent a successful operation today. She was taken ill during the police court proceedings against the suffragette leaders early in May.

A second and more serious operation is to be performed as soon as the "General" is well enough. It is probable therefore that her trial will be indefinitely postponed.

NEW SIEGEL MURDER CLEW.

Chinese at Oakland Treasured Clippings About Girl.

San Francisco.—A key to the mystery of the murder of Elsie Siegel, granddaughter of General Franz Siegel, a civil war hero, in the room of a Chinese in New York in June of 1909, is believed to have been found in Oakland. In the rooms of Lee Dor, who was arrested on charges of having opium, United States treasury agents found a set of press clippings describing the death of Elsie Siegel and several photographs of pretty white women.

Prior to this discovery the prisoner had been released under $1,000 bond. His whereabouts now are unknown. John W. Smith, a treasury agent, who unearthed the evidence against Lee Dor, said:

"Lee Dor tried to convince us that he had no knowledge of English, but it is significant that a Chinese who pretends no knowledge of our language should so treasure the reports of a murder that took place in New York four years ago."

The Chinese suspected of strangling Elsie Siegel was Leon Ling. His description does not tally with that of Lee Dor.

AIDED BY WIFE IN FIGHT.

British Mine Owner and Woman Kill Five Mexicans.

Agua Calientes, Mexico.—John Walker, a British mine owner, and his wife, fighting shoulder to shoulder, recently killed five men and wounded three of a band of eleven employees at the mine near Villa Garcia, Zacatecas. Mr. and Mrs. Walker arrived here later under escort of troops.

The employees attacked Mr. Walker because of his inability to raise money to pay their wages. The men used knives and clubs, and Mr. Walker had been seriously cut and beaten when he opened fire with an automatic revolver. Mrs. Walker re-enforced her husband with a rifle.

After the battle Mr. and Mrs. Walker escaped and were befriended by a Spanish priest, who hid them until he could secure the aid of the American consular agent here. The latter obtained troops to escort Mr. and Mrs. Walker here.

The Kaleidoscope.

Have you any idea what a wonderful thing a kaleidoscope really is? Did you ever catch yourself wondering how many different kinds of patterns could be formed by the little bits of colored glass which the instrument contains and which adjust themselves with such remarkable facility when the instrument is turned in the hand? A calculation has been made by a noted mathematician which we are sure will astonish readers. He shows that a kaleidoscope containing twelve bits of glass may be turned rapidly enough to make ten changes a minute day and night for ninety-one years and forty-nine days without exhausting the different combinations or the possibilities of getting a new figure on the next turn. If the number of pieces of glass be increased to twenty, a calculation shows that 462,880,890,576 years would be necessary to go through all of the changes of which it would be capable, the holder of the instrument turning all the while so as to get ten changes a minute and working day and night those millions of years.

FOUNDER'S DAY

Celebrated by Students and Instructors of Shepards College Sunday at Granville.

[Special to the Advocate]
Granville, June 2.—With ceremonies befitting the occasion, students and instructors in Shepards college for women did honor to the founder of the institution, Dr. Daniel Shepards, on the centenary of its founding, Sunday.

The day was known as Founder's Day and only in recent years has it been set apart as a special occasion for honoring the memory of this one of the prime movers in the cause of higher education for women and girls.

The speaker of the occasion was Mrs. James Hopley of Bucyrus, former president of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs. She spoke of the days when she was a student in Shepards college, and brought her intimate knowledge of the esteemed founder of the institution before her hearers with a style of oratory at once impressive and appropriate.

Music was furnished by the Shepards Glee Club, and throughout the program of events was a delightful one to students and friends of the institution.

A Spendthrift Duke.

The sixth Duke of Devonshire, son of the "Gainsborough" duchess, came into a colossal fortune on attaining his majority. The whole of his property was in his own hands. The outfit had been cut off, and his father's death had interfered with the resettlement. "There was, therefore, no curb on his extravagance," says his biographer, "and so great were the inroads that his mode of life made on his wealth that toward the end of his life he felt constrained to sell the Yorkshire estate of Lonsdaleborough." This famous and foolish duke believed in keeping up the dignity of his position and would drive to race meetings in a coach and six with twelve outriders. When sent as ambassador extraordinary to St. Petersburg for the coronation of Nicholas I. he spent £50,000 in excess of the sum allowed him by the government.—London Globe.

Keep Pots and Pans in Sight.

The efficient kitchen should be so arranged that it is not necessary to hide all the pots and pans under doors and in cupboards away from sight. Did you ever visit a factory or large establishment where the boilers and the caldrons and the boiling and the thousand tools were stuck away from sight when not in use? Your kitchen equipment should be so attractive and good that it looks well and doesn't need to be tucked away. Every time a pot is pushed into a shut closet we increase the dangers of uncleanness, and it takes us twenty unnecessary motions to stoop to place it in a low cupboard and fish it out again. Hang up, place on shelves, put knives in strips of canvas, screw eyes on small pieces, use no closet doors if possible and let your kitchen be a real workshop.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Haiti's Mysterious Booms.

"Gouffre" is a term applied in Haiti to mysterious acoustic phenomena, probably of subterranean origin, belonging to the class of sounds known as "brontidi" or "brontides," reported from various parts of the world. They seem to be much more varied in character than the typical brontides of Italy or Belgium. Sometimes they resemble the boom of cannon, but again are described as deep rumblings, howlings, a rushing sound, as of wind, a deafening crash, "as if a mountain of glass were shattered." They have been known in Haiti from early times.

Rats in Tokyo.

A price is set on the head of the rat in Tokyo, and, according to the Far East, "the sight is frequently seen in the side streets of the city of some blooming damsel gingerly conveying a small rat, suspended by a string tied to its tail, to the police box. (Here an official receipt is given for the rat, which entitles the holder to 5 sen, and so the plague is combated and the people protected against foul epidemics.)"

The Monday Morning Feeling

THE suburbanite, a broom in her hand, came out rather dispiritedly upon her porch.

Her neighbor, on the adjoining porch, was listlessly fusteing among her flowers, pulling off dead leaves here, breaking off faded flowers there.

"Do you ever have the Monday morning feeling?" asked the suburbanite, as she sat down in a chair.

"I should say I do," replied the other. "I have a bad attack of it right now." And she sat down in a chair.

Then the two women laughed.

"It really is a fact, though," said the suburbanite, as if she felt it necessary to argue the point.

"It is indeed," replied the other with decision. "I just want to dawdle."

"Same here," affirmed the suburbanite. "I'll do all sorts of trifling things, so that I won't have to get to work in earnest. And I pretend to myself that these things have to be done. When all the time I know they are only excuses for not beginning the real work that is waiting."

The other nodded understandingly. "I like to think over what I did yesterday, or imagine some trip I want to take, or plan a new dress,—anything but get at the washing."

"I don't see why so much work is necessary," said the suburbanite, dolefully. "I don't see why life can't be one glorious picnic all the time. If it was, I am sure I would be a much more agreeable person than I am now, when I have to do a lot of things I do not want to."

"I suppose Mrs. Phillips never has the Monday morning feeling," said the other woman, glancing across at a neighbor's yard. "See, she has her washing out already."

The suburbanite gazed enviously at the snowy clothes, fluttering in the wind. "And I only have mine to soak," she said, gloomily.

Just then Mrs. Phillips came out of her house, waved a friendly hand at them, and then strolled over.

"You never suffer from the Monday morning feeling, do you?" inquired the suburbanite.

"Do I? It fairly eats me up," laughed Mrs. Phillips. "The only way I can shake it off is to dig right into some big task. I think that is the reason Monday was made wash-day. When every laundry bag in the house is just bulging, you haven't time to think how little you feel like washing. It simply pushes you right into the wash-tub. If I didn't have the washing to do, I'd plan some work for Monday morning that was big and hard, and that absolutely had to be done. Then, when I jumped out of bed, the first thing I'd think of would be what I had to do, and I wouldn't have time to think of anything else."

"You are so energetic," said the suburbanite. Then she arose wearily. "I suppose that washing of mine will never get done unless I go do it. I think sometimes I'll make Tuesday my wash-day and just enjoy the Monday morning feeling."

"Don't," advised Mrs. Phillips, "because if you do, the feeling will just move on to Tuesday. You'll never get rid of it by running away from it. The only cure for the Monday morning feeling is work."

BACK PAINS FROM KIDNEY TROUBLE

McMECHEN, W. VA. MAN SOUGHT HEALTH IN MANY PLACES BEFORE GOING TO THE UNITED DOCTORS.

Many Physicians and the Use of Patent Medicines Did Not Help Him.

Mr. Lee Mason of McMechen, W. Va., the latest to offer his word of endorsement to sick people, now reports his search for health and how he finally found it at the United Doctors Institute.

"I have been to different health resorts in the West and also in the South and while receiving some benefit in general health, my kidney trouble continued."

"At last I concluded it was time for me to try the United Doctors which I did three months ago and started treatment with them. I must say that since this period I have not been troubled at all with my kidneys and wish publicly to give the United Doctors the credit they deserve for this."

MEXICAN HATRED OF U. S. GROWING

"Boycott American Goods," Is Jingoos' Latest Cry.

SERIOUS CONDITIONS ARISE.

Caused by Refusal of Washington Government to Recognize Huerta as President—Ambassador Wilson's Recall Asked For—Smelting Company Sending Employees Away.

Mexico City.—Resentment against the United States and Americans because Washington does not recognize the Huerta government seems to be growing here, although the anti-American movement has not yet assumed a menacing phase and probably will not. Thus far it has been confined principally to newspaper suggestions that a boycott be declared upon American products, coupled with the use of the word "Yankee" in editorials in as offensive a manner as the writers can employ it.

Scores of shops have posted placards in their windows reading, "No American goods sold here." This is not especially significant, because the placards are displayed are either Spaniards or other foreigners, or ordinarily do not vend merchandise made in the United States. Thus far no Mexican, so far as known, has refused to sell goods to Americans or rejected United States money.

One big dry goods store placed in its show window a manikin dressed like Uncle Sam bearing two satchels. One was lettered, "I am going away," and the other, "Goodbye, Mexicans." Another figure, that of a Mexican woman, was labeled, "I endorse the boycott."

Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the first secretary of the American embassy, when he saw the figures, looked up the proprietor of the store and suggested that probably some 3,500 American customers might not approve such pleasantry. The proprietor promptly removed the figures.

demonstration, but it is doubtful if any attempt at one will be made; besides, the police probably would put an end to it promptly.

The more timid among Americans fear trouble unless something is done quickly either by the United States or Mexico to render the diplomatic situation between the two governments less strained. The Mexicans are greatly pleased at the prospect of the United States and Japan becoming embroiled over the California situation. They look upon the action of President Wilson in forbidding any naval or army movement calculated to arouse Japan's suspicions as a confession of weakness and a fear in Washington that Japan might declare war.

The exodus of Americans continues. A report reached here that, alarmed at the prospect of a total cessation of rail traffic due to the activity of the rebels, the American Smelting and Refining company is sending its families from Agincalientes to Vera Cruz by a special train and is trying to charter a steamship to transport them from Vera Cruz to New York.

Those Americans here whose opinions are worth while do not hesitate to pronounce the diplomatic situation as between Mexico and the United States impossible. They favor recalling Ambassador Wilson and sending here a commissioner to take up the question of recognition with the government whose communication with Mexican officials would not be hampered by embarrassing personal and official relations in the past. It is not questioned that the continued retaining of Henry Lane Wilson here constitutes a grave impediment to an understanding being reached by the two governments. The sooner Washington appreciates this and acts the sooner will Americans in Mexico see a possible way out of the tangle.

Howard Jackson is in Zanesville today.

Battering Down Walls of Hell; Not the Sheol of the Bible

BUT THAT OF THE DARK AGES

Jesus Promises to Destroy the Bible Hell—Why the Superstitious View of Hell Should Be Battered by All Lovers of Truth—The Bad Effects of the Error—Faith in True God Is Vanishing Because of This Colossal Error, This "Doctrine of Demons" Invention—Not Learning, but Ignorance, Opposes Error's Destruction.

PASTOR RUSSELL

Kansas City, Mo., June 1.—Pastor Russell addressed here today large audiences of Bible Students. We report one of his discourses, in which he declared the hell of the Bible a totally different one from the hell of the Dark Ages. This error, he said, still casts a gloom over the masses and hinders a proper appreciation of the Divine character of Love and Justice. He took a combination text: "O Sheol [hell], I will be thy destruction" (Isaiah 13:14); "O Hades [hell], where is thy victory?"—1 Corinthians 15:55.

My text, said the Pastor, teaches that Jesus will destroy the hell of the Bible, the tomb—the state of death. He will do it by delivering all mankind from death by the resurrection. Thus He will ultimately gain His great victory over sin and death, and deliver humanity from their power. No one but Jesus can do this. Hence we must wait for the appointed time—the establishment of the Messianic Kingdom. Meantime, it is ours to batter down the hell of torment which for centuries has troubled God's saints, and turned the hearts of the masses from their Creator.

The Pastor dealt some vigorous blows at the doctrine he condemned. They were not blows of anger nor of sentiment, but blows of logic and of Scripture. He urged his hearers not to think that the cultured and intelligent ministers oppose him. His opponents are comparatively few, he said, and they are of two classes. Some good, and honest, but ignorant; others thoroughly informed, who no more believe in a hell of torture than does the Pastor, dodge the question and give the impression that they believe it, so as to hoodwink the people, and keep them in darkness on a subject of the most vital importance to human happiness, now and throughout eternity.

The masses of Christian ministers are educated. Preachers in general know well that the Bible does not teach a hell of torture—that the words Sheol, Hades, Gehenna and Tartarus do not signify a place of torture—where all except the saintly will everlastingly suffer. These ministers do not come forth into the open with me to combat the error, presumably because they do not realize that this terrible blasphemy against the Divine character lies at the bottom of nearly all the godlessness and the growing unbelief in the Divine Word now prevalent. To me it is evident, said the Pastor, that reverence for God and faith in the Bible can never be restored until this great Moloch of false teaching shall be demolished. This explains my zeal for the exposing of error of the past, and for the revelation of truth on the subject of future punishment. All the precious promises of the Bible and all its just penalties are negatived and made of none effect by this colossal error of the past, whenever it is recognized, conceded.

The Pastor did not on this occasion attempt explanations of some of the three or four parables, which by misinterpretations, misunderstandings and interpolations have been made to support the God-dishonoring doctrine that everlasting torture is the wages of sin, in contradiction of the Bible statement, "The wages of sin is death." He contented himself with reminding his hearers that he had already preached on the parable of the "Rich Man and Lazarus," the parable of the "Sheep and the Goats," and the Lord's statement, "where their worm dieth not and their fire is not quenched"; and again in Revelation, about the Devil being cast with the beast and false prophet into torment.

These four figurative statements, the Pastor declared, are the whole basis, so far as the Bible is concerned, of the doctrine of eternal torment. He had preached upon all of them. Many of his hearers had read his sermons and were familiar with the reasonable explanations of these Scriptures. To others who have not heard and have not read, he offered to send his views in printed form, free upon postcard application.

The God of All Grace.

The God of the Bible, said the Pastor, is such an one as every human heart needs and craves. He is a God of sympathy and love, respecting whom it is declared (Psalm 102:19, 20), that He looked down from His Holy Habitation and beheld, and He heard the groaning of the prisoners. "Then His own Arm brought salvation." (Isaiah 63:5.) The groaning of the prisoners was not in some far-away fiery furnace, but right here on earth—in every home. St. Paul declares, "The whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together." He is quite right. Our race groans because we are slaves of Sin, and Sin is paying us the prescribed penalty, namely, death.

We are a dying race, mentally, morally and physically. We are more and more disappointing to ourselves and to others, and we hasten toward the tomb, slaves and prisoners—going down into the great prison-house of Death. That prison-house of Death, the tomb, is the Bible hell. All the aches and pains which come to us as we approach and enter the prison are incidental parts of the penalty. But "There's a wideness in God's Mercy, Like the wideness of the sea."

He has purposed a blessing upon every member of the race, all of whom have suffered the loss of Eden happiness and of life itself through the disobedience of the first man, Father Adam. The Second Adam is to completely undo the work of the first, and is to give to every member of the race the fullest opportunity for reconciliation and return to the Father's House.

The work of Jesus at the First Advent was only a preparatory one. His death was necessary as the corresponding price for the sin of the First Adam. Only by paying that penalty could He ever have the right to destroy the great prison-house—the tomb, Hades—and to deliver the prisoners by resurrection from the dead. His work was satisfactory. He has been received up into glory "where He was before," only with added dignity at the Father's right hand. There He waits, the Psalmist tells us, for the hour to strike when He shall take His great power and reign.—Psalm 2:8-10.

The first feature of His campaign will be the binding of Satan. Then He will cause the Sun of Righteousness to shine forth, with healing in its beams. The light of the knowledge of God shall fill the whole earth. Every knee will bow and every tongue confess. All will have the fullest opportunity for return to God, and only the willingly disobedient and rebellious against light will die the Second Death, and go into "everlasting destruction."

"He Upon the Throne Said."

Beautifully does the Book of Revelation picture the coming glories of Messiah's Kingdom and the blessings to mankind. Mark that it is the enthroned Messiah who declares, "Behold, I make all things new," and who tells that, as Jehovah's Messenger and Representative, He will wipe away all tears from off all faces and give beauty for ashes, and the oil of joy for the spirit of sadness.—Revelation 21:4; Isaiah 61:1-3.

The God of Love and Grace, the God who sympathizes with His creatures and who promises ultimately to wipe away all their tears, is the only God who appeals to the human heart and head. Our misconceptions in the past served to drive the world further and further away from God, and even the saintly found it difficult to worship Him in spirit and in truth—so dense was the cloud of ignorance and superstition which enshrouded us. Hark to Cardinal Newman's words,

"Lead, kindly Light, Amidst the encircling gloom."

God is sending out His light and truth. The encircling gloom is breaking. The errors and superstitions which hindered us from seeing the beauty of God's Word are being scattered. The light from one page and statement is shining upon another. The entire Word of God is heard as never before. God is speaking. His people are hearing. Bible Students in all parts of the earth are awakening to the unsectarian study of the Lord's Word.—2 Timothy 2:15.

True, Satan is still active. He is not yet bound. The Prince of Darkness hates the light, battles against it, and enlists on his side as many as possible. Alas, that he is able to gain a few as honest and as blind as was Saul of Tarsus, nineteen centuries ago. These now breathe out threatenings, as did Saul. But we have confidence that all sincere ones of them, like St. Paul, will soon see a great light and hear the great voice of the Master, and be fully delivered from the evil spirit of persecution, which, in our day, uses slander and "shoots out arrows, even bitter words," to destroy the Message and the messengers of the Prince of Light, now shortly to take His power to reign for a thousand years, subjecting all things to the Divine standards.

"Doctrines of Demons."

The Pastor declared that in his judgment there is no doubt that the Church during the Dark Ages came under the influence of the "doctrines of demons" referred to by St. Paul. He declared that the demons of the Bible are identical with the fallen angels of Genesis 6. They seek to hide their identity, representing themselves as holy angels or as dead human beings speaking to the living through mediums, as in "bleeding times"—through witches, wizards, necromancers, astrologers, soothsayers, etc.

These, under Satan's domination, have for centuries sought to substantiate Satan's lie, and to deceive mankind into believing that the dead are not dead—into believing that Satan told the truth, saying, "Ye shall not surely die," and that God told the untruth when He said, "Thou shalt surely die." To turn the hearts of men away from the God of Love and Mercy, they have traduced His character and cultivated human fears.

Light and Darkness in Foreign Lands.

The Pastor related some of his experiences amongst the heathen in India. The more intelligent quickly learned of the difference between the Message of God's Love which the Pastor bore, and the message they had heard from the missionaries. Some of them appealed to him to stay longer; for they wanted to hear more. They declared that they could not accept the teachings of the missionaries, to the effect that all of their forefathers had gone to a hell of torture, simply because they never heard of Jesus. They declared that they could not believe in such a God, even though they respected the intelligence of the missionaries on other subjects.

They said, "Our gods do not allow us to torture even brutes or insects, and hence would not themselves delight in torture. How can we receive the Christian's God, with sentiments less noble than our own?" The Pastor's reply was, Dear Friends, we have all made mistakes, more or less in the past. God's Word is now opening up to us more and more. We are learning wherein we misunderstood Him and His gracious purposes. Begin a proper study of the Bible. You will find it soul-satisfying beyond all else.

The Pastor tells that in India scores of Bible Student classes are springing up; and native teachers in India, China, Japan and Korea are bearing of the God of Love and Mercy and of the better and clearer understanding of the Bible, with rejoicing hearts. The Gospel of the Kingdom—that Messiah is soon to become the great King, to establish righteousness, to overthrow sin and to uplift humanity—he says appeals to the simple minds of the Orient; especially to those attracted to Christianity, but unable to enter heartily into its service because of the darkness, mysticism and unreasonableness attaching to its exposition.

The prayer of our Methodist friends, "Send out Thy Light and Truth, O Lord," is surely being answered, said the Pastor, even though some godly Methodists are slow to perceive the answer. The Message of the Love of God which passeth all understanding is the Message which was foretold with our own hearts as Christians, and is the only Message which has power; hence our Master's prayer, "Sanctify them through Thy Truth; Thy Word is Truth."—John 17:17.

Fear may be the beginning of Wisdom, but Love is surely its goal. Perfect love casteth out all fear, and brings us near to the great Fountain of Grace and Truth, Mercy and Love. In His Divine presence and fellowship we find a transforming work progressing in our hearts—and more and more such become copies of God's dear Son and prepared for a share with Him in the glories of His Kingdom.

Ignorance and Fear Oppose.

Only ignorance and fear can oppose the Message of God's Grace, and prefer the doctrines of demons. Only the narrow-minded can pray, "God bless me and my wife, my son John and his wife, us four and no more." All of our breadth of heart and head must concede that a God wise and powerful enough to be man's Creator must also be just and loving; for injustice is unwise, and lovelessness is devilish. God declares that His work is perfect, and that He made man a moral image of Himself. Our fallen condition is a part of the penalty of sin, as the tomb is the companion of it.

No complaint could have been made by our race if God had left us thus to perish like brute beasts. But the Bible declares that He is rich in mercy, and unwilling that any should perish, but desirous that all might be recovered to everlasting life. Again, we read that God so loved the world that He gave His Only Begotten Son that whosoever believeth on Him might not perish, but, on the contrary, instead of perishing like the brute beast, might attain through Christ to everlasting life.—John 3:16.

The world has not yet had the promised blessing of God; for the Divine Plan is that Jesus must first select from amongst the world a company of His own disposition of loyalty to the Divine will. Not until those shall be fully selected and glorified will the great Messiah, Head and members, be completed. Then Bridegroom and Bride enthroned in glory, the work of blessing will begin.

And that work will be the overthrow of sin, and thus the overthrow of the penalty of sin—death. It will mean the recovery of mankind from bondage to sin and death. It will mean the uplifting of the partially dead mental, moral and physical powers to perfection. More than this, it will mean for those who have died without the knowledge of the Truth an awakening from the tomb, that they also may be brought to this knowledge of God and to a privilege of sharing in the great Redeemer's work and merit. No wonder the angels sang "Glory to God in the highest," at the birth of the Redeemer! No wonder they declared, "We bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be unto all people!"

God's glory has not yet appeared to man. False doctrines, ignorance, superstition, still bedevil the vision of humanity. St. Paul's words still apply: "The god of this world hath blinded the minds of all them that believe not, lest the glorious light of God's goodness should shine into their hearts."—2 Corinthians 4:4.

The good tidings of great joy for all people are as much for those who died before Jesus as for those who have lived since. They have gone to the great prison-house of death, Sheol, Hades, the tomb. They are prisoners there. They await the release to be accomplished by the One who redeemed them at Calvary. When released, the Message of the angels will be fulfilled in them. They will hear the good tidings of redemption. Sheol will be destroyed. Victory over Hades will be complete. No prisoner shall be left therein. All shall be awakened from the sleep of death. The guarantee for this is the Word of the Lord, backed by the great fact that the Redeemer gave Himself "a Ransom for all, to be testified in due time."—1 Timothy 2:4-6.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Avoid Sore Throat.

The ailment popularly termed "clergyman's sore throat," due, in many cases, to unwise use of the voice, represents inflammation of the vocal cords, which are folds of membrane contained within the larynx. It is the vibration of these cords, set in operation by currents of air passing from the lungs, which produces the voice. A certain amount of pain and swelling is also associated with troubles of the voice box, this plan in many cases being associated with difficulty in swallowing.

Rest of the voice should be strictly observed, while smoking must be strictly prohibited, seeing that the tobacco vapor is an intense irritant of the throat and adjacent parts. If there is much swelling and pain the application of a sponge wrung out of hot water to the front of the larynx will afford relief. The patient should remain in a room the temperature of which is even, but not of too high a character. The food should consist of liquids, including milk, soups and the like, and small pieces of ice may be sucked if the irritation is of acute character.

We have issued a special circular describing a carefully selected list of bonds combining ample security with a liberal annual interest return. These securities are sold at prices to yield from 5% to 6%. These bonds do not represent new forms of investment—they are secured by properties of demonstrated value and earning power. Grandma Used Sage Tea To Darken Faded, Gray Hair

Mixed With Sulphur It Makes Hair Soft, Beautiful; Cures Dandruff.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. But the brewing at home is messy and out of date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, which is usually too sticky, so insist upon getting Wyeth's, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says his customers insist on Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because they say, it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

W. H. Mazey Company

NATURAL GAS CASE

known as the Everett company, buying gas in the open market, and that later the Logan Gas company assumed control of it and that the latter is a producing concern.

In citing the extent of the company's investments he went into detail, mentioning among other points the fact that 100 wells were put down last season. His main point of contention was, however, that the condition of the held is such as to make the price to the distributing company so high that it could make no profit whatever on the basis of 18 cents per thousand cubic feet, notwithstanding that it had voluntarily charged that rate for a period of years back.

He declared depreciation of the field one of the chief reasons for making necessary an increased rate to Newark consumers. He said the Newark company had been "tried to a post" by the ordinance of the council, because it would be impossible for it to purchase gas from any producing company for less than 18 cents and makes a profit.

He quoted witnesses in support of his argument to show that rock pressure had dropped from $60 pounds to 100 pounds. In the Sugar Grove field, and to 160 pounds in the Knox-Licking field and that the gas production in the latter field had dropped from a million cubic feet per hour to 250,000 cubic feet per hour.

He based his contention that natural gas is entirely differentiated from any other public utility by the uncertainty of rock pressure, the problems presented by dry holes, surrendered leases, rentals on unused property and the small yield under low pressure at increased cost.

Said he: "This demand for an 18 cent rate—with the average at least 20 cents net—is in the very teeth of the law that forbids unjust discrimination." He said 72 neighboring cities pay an average of 27 to 30 cents per thousand now, and indicated that past conditions from no standard from which to compute present conditions and requirements as regards this particular form of utility.

He declared that Newark consumes seven million cubic feet of gas per day, but that the plant must be equipped to supply ten millions in times of emergency when the pull on the supply reaches what gas men know as "top load."

Attorney Roderie Jones, solicitor for the city, answered the arguments of Judge Douglas by presenting figures to offset the testimony of the company's witnesses, and at the same time by an endeavor to discredit several of its witnesses on ground of error or miscalculation.

Touching directly on the matter of the fairness of the rate fixed by the city ordinance, Attorney Jones, in an elaborate and comprehensive brief, fairly bristling with figures tending to show valuations of the company's investment, said a fair valuation of the property used by it for convenience of the public should be the basis for fixing the rate.

He suggested that the court determine the value of the plant, the net profits the company could earn under the fixed rate and whether the profits would be enough for a fair return on the capital invested.

Supporting the practicability of this theory he commented that "experience and facts constitute a much more satisfactory criterion than prophecy and speculation."

The import of his argument, after eliminating those features requiring determination by the court as to a matter of preference in order of merit, was that the company has not shown by its evidence that the rate fixed by the ordinance would prevent its realizing a fair rate of return on the capital invested, and based on computations from the company's records from the time of its organization.

Briefly outlining the financial history of the corporation, he said it was organized in 1889 with $81,600 capital stock. He asserted that no additional capital was ever put into the business except that realized by the earnings of the original investment. It was managed by the Everett interests until 1898 when the Logan Gas company assumed control and operated it until 1902, since which time the Logan Gas company has been in control of its destinies.

He showed that during the eight years of the Everett management total receipts were $302,274.69, paying within that time $10,000 in dividends with a balance of about $20,000 on hand over and above the capital stock originally invested.

Under the Logan management, he said, net profits were $172,569.63. In the period from 1898 to 1902, he said, the company received $502,274.69 and expended $239,027.21 in the field and in the city on betterment and extension, including $114,217.03 for a six-inch line from Newark to Sugar Grove.

He declared the total earnings of the company since 1902 to be $1,154,117.85 and adding the earnings under the Everett management, $61,783.25, and under the Logan management, $261,252.32, gave a grand total of $1,477,153.42, exclusive of amounts taken out between 1889 and 1902 for betterments and extensions.

It was in this connection that he summarized figures on the company's earnings with the statement that it had earned enough to pay for its entire property, if it were all wiped out, and an additional six per cent on the original investment.

Arguments extended over into the late afternoon. It is presumed that Judge Jones will withhold his decision in order to look over the briefs and exhibits submitted by counsel.

CONCERT TO BE GIVEN BY CHURCH CHOIR

On Thursday evening of this week, the choir of the First Presbyterian church, under the leadership of Mr. James Wolfe, of Granville, will render its annual concert.

Assisting the choir will be Miss Elizabeth Matthews, violinist, Miss Bess Hagmeir, pianist, Miss Lenora Phillips, organist.

Mr. Wolfe will sing several baritone solos, and Miss Matthews will play several violin solos.

The choir has been in charge of its present director about a year, and during that time he has raised the standard of choir music to a high place. Mr. Wolfe, besides being an accomplished director, is a soloist of unusual power, and has made a distinct place for himself in the hearts of music lovers of Newark.

While this is not the last time that Mr. Wolfe will be heard in Newark, still it is so near the last, that a large audience is desired, for the sake of the choir and its director.

SENATORS

claim it will be impossible to remember all the persons who have called upon them to make appeals for changes.

President Wilson's declaration that an "insidious lobby" large and powerful, was at work, led many to believe that the committee might suggest to President Wilson that he could make a personal statement to committee members, either at the capitol or at the White House, giving any information he has.

The senate resolution requests the President to give such information as he has to the committee.

Senators Ashurst, Bacon, Bankhead and Borah, were the first asked to appear before the committee. A schedule has been prepared limiting the questions of each senator to fifteen minutes and providing for sessions of the committee until 10 o'clock each night.

Before the investigating committee met Senator Overman and Reed went to the White House and had a long conference with President Wilson. Both declined to talk of their visit, but the President told inquirers he had made suggestions to the senators which would be developed in the course of the inquiry. He declined to say what they were. The senators did not ask President Wilson to appear and it was generally rumored at the capitol and at the White House that he had not intended to do so.

It was said at the White House that the President practically had placed all his conclusion on the lobby in the hands of Senators Overman and Reese, and the impression prevailed that later the President might furnish a list of names of those whom he believed to be lobbying against the tariff bill.

When the hearing opened, some newspaper photographers ordered the committee members around in a business like way while a picture was taken.

Senators Bacon and Ashurst moved aside.

"I don't care to get into such a picture," said Senator Bacon.

Senator Ashurst was first called. He testified he was not interested directly or indirectly financially in the production, manufacture or sale of any article mentioned in the tariff bill or any other bill pending before congress, nor had he sought to influence any other senator.

The committee then made the first effort to secure a list of so-called "lobbyists" or persons who have "talked with Senators" owing to the tariff bill. Senator Ashurst said he had not kept a record of those who had talked with him but he was prepared to give names of all he could remember.

The first was "William Kettner of California," who had asked him to find out whether there would be any further reduction in the tariff on lemons and fruits.

The senator asked Chairman Simmons of the finance committee and the latter said he thought the Underwood rates would stand.

A Mr. McClure, representing Western sheepmen, and a Mr. Tomlinson, representing cattlemen, Senator Ashurst said, called upon him and by legitimate argument sought to show him that sheep and cattle business would be hurt by the bill.

"Nothing improper was said to me by these men and what they did every American citizen has a right to do—talk to their senator about their business affairs," he said. No one, he declared, had tried improperly to influence his action.

Senator Ashurst said he did business, however, with a man named McMurray, who had been attempting to influence improperly the action of senators with respect to preventing the cancellation of certain contracts he, McMurray, held with Cherokee Indians for the sale of land whereby he would receive $1,500,000.

"He is the smoothest lobbyist I have ever seen," added the senator, "he could carry a bundle of eels up stairs without dropping a single one."

Senator Ashurst considered any man or woman a "lobbyist" who "bought" senators or members of congress and urged them to vote for certain measures or suffer reprisals in the elections.

"I do not consider a man a lobbyist who files legitimate arguments with congress about matters in which he is interested," the senator added.

Senator Bacon, who followed Senator Ashurst, said that "out of an abundance of caution," he wanted to tell the committee that he owned a small farm in Georgia on which some articles might be raised that were affected by the tariff. A sewer pipe factory, a street railway, a gas company and an electric company were other industries in which Senator Bacon

WILL RESIGN COUNCIL SEAT THIS EVENING

With the appointment of John A. Dwyer as Juvenile Probation Officer, a vacancy will be created in the councilmanic body when his resignation is read at tonight's meeting of that body. Mr. Dwyer was councilman-at-large, and was serving his first term, having been elected in the fall of 1911. He assumed his duties in January 1912.

Rumors have been flying thick and fast as to the probable successor of Mr. Dwyer. According to the reports circulated this morning at least four are seeking to occupy Mr. Dwyer's chair.

Those mentioned during the day are Julius Juch, owner and publisher of the German Express, Ex-Councilman L. A. Stare, Ex-Councilman Joseph Stock and John Fallon, a Pennsylvania employe.

Mr. Stare served two terms as councilman and Mr. Stock served a part of an unexpired term. Neither of the other two men have been members of council. Mr. Juch was a member of the board of public safety several years ago when that board was composed of three members.
